Synopsis: Beckett is a pampered and selfish cat who totally takes for granted the lucky hand he has been dealt. All that is about to change, however, when he carelessly loses his ninth life. With no lives left and faced with the inevitable, Beckett pleads for things to be back to how they were. At first his request is refused but in a moment of exceptional empathy, the 'Gatekeeper' has a change of heart and allows him to return to earth with a whole new set of lives. What he doesn't realise immediately however is that each of these new lives will see him return in a variety of different forms...each one teaching him a valuable & timely lesson. It is a journey that sees Beckett turn from gloriously self-absorbed pet to a self-sacrificing hero; because sometimes you must travel many different roads to find the very best version of yourself.

Genre: Comedy
Director: Philippe Martinez
Status: Completed

Synopsis: Hopeless romantic Rachel's wedding dreams poof into the crisp, late-December air when she catches her groom high-tailing it out of the church minutes before they say "I do." His fumbling excuses earn him a strong right hook to the chin, with Rachel left in a puddle of tears and bridal taffeta. Her two bridesmaids, Amanda and Rebecca, drunkenly decide not to let her perfectly good Christmas in the Caribbean honeymoon go to waste. The ladies jet off to the islands, ready to relax and recuperate in the sun and sea. Their very first evening meal brings handsome restaurateur and widower Allesandro to their table, and sparks begin to fly between him and Rachel. Her friends try to get them together while his daughter tries to keep them apart. The couple explore the island together and begin to fall in love, sailing, dining and exploring Caribbean culture. Christmas is coming and Rachel has to decide if she follows her heart and joins the family she has always wanted or heads home to England. Will she open her heart to the spirit of Christmas?

Everest

HanWay Films

Cast: Ewan McGregor, Sam Heughan, Mark Strong
Genre: Thriller
Director: Doug Liman
Status: Pre-Production
Synopsis: 1921. Everest remains the very last great unconquered challenge on earth. Many have lost their sanity - and often their lives - in attempting to reach its fabled summit. George Mallory (McGregor) is picked by the arrogant Arthur Hinks (Strong) of the Royal Geographic Society to scale the impossible. Following the First World War, the fading British empire is desperate for a restorative victory, but for Mallory and his rival, the eccentric Aussie George Finch (Heughan), the challenge of Everest has nothing to do with patriotism, instead it is a singular test of self. Climbing without oxygen, to heights not even planes can reach, Mallory's successive attempts to make the summit sees a challenge become an all-consuming obsession. It leads him to abandon his beloved wife and three children for months on end, give up his job, and push his body to the limits of human endurance. Everest becomes a very real monster for Mallory. His 45 degree climb to the peak is an inhuman mix of vertigo and nerve-shredding tension, requiring all of his fearlessness and audacity. It takes everything from him for reasons he can barely articulate: because it's grander than him, it's the last empty part of the map, and as he simply puts it - 'because it's there'.

The Flight Of Bryan

Cast: Bryan Allen, Jordan Rezo, Paul MacCready, Steven O'Neill, Sam Duran, Jose Palma
Genre: Documentary
Director: James Erskine
Status: Post-Production

Synopsis: Genre-busting tale of how unemployed amateur cyclist BRYAN ALLEN, and heavily in debt father of three, PAUL MACCREADY, together with a rag-tag team of neuro-diverse outliers, set out on a death-defying and madcap quest to untangle the mystery of human powered flight and in doing so win the most coveted prize in aviation. Built from a remarkable trove of recently discovered 16mm footage along with an arsenal of innovative techniques, this uplifting story of ingenuity, courage and determination, challenges us to question the assumptions we make about about society's outliers and reminds us of how the stories we tell can help us to understand and perhaps change the world.

Synopsis: In what the New York Times declared "profoundly beautiful", and the Chicago Tribune called "a Broadway revelation!", GIRL FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY re imagines legendary Bob Dylan songs, including: "Forever Young", "Hurricane", "Slow Train Coming," "Make You Feel My Love" and "Like A Rolling Stone." Based in 1934 in Duluth, Minnesota during the Great Depression, a group of wayward travellers' lives intersect in a guesthouse filled with music, life and hope. Things are spiralling out of control for proprietor NICK LAINE. His wife ELIZABETH is suffering from dementia. The bank is foreclosing on their home. Their adopted daughter, MARIANNE, has a closely guarded secret that no-one can explain. But when an escaped convict JOE SCOTT seeks shelter at the guesthouse, a relationship develops between MARIANNE and JOE that will change everything for everyone forever. A love story set in a time of adversity; GIRL FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY speaks to our world now just as Bob Dylan's timeless songs give voice to the eternal struggle of the human spirit for every age.

Synopsis: On October 6th, 1973, under cover of darkness, on Israel's holiest day and during the month of Ramadan, the combined forces of Egypt, Syria, and Jordan begin a surprise attack on the Sinai Peninsula and the Golan Heights. Outnumbered and outgunned, Israel's only female Prime Minister, Golda Meir, confronts the immediate, clear, and present danger of a ticking timebomb that she hoped never to face. Surrounded, isolated, and frustrated by the infighting of her all-male cabinet, with little hope of rescue, one woman is in a race against time to save millions of lives on both sides of the conflict. Academy Award® winner Helen Mirren stars as Golda Meir. Produced by BAFTA winner Michael Kuhn (Florence Foster Jenkins, The Duchess), GOLDA will be directed by Academy Award® winner Guy Nattiv. The screenplay by Nicholas Martin (Florence Foster Jenkins), who also produces, tells the story of the intensely dramatic and high-stake responsibilities and decisions that Meir – also known as the "Iron Lady of Israel" – faced during the Yom Kippur War.

Synopsis: Ten year old Mary O'Hara is devastated when her grandmother, Emer, is admitted to hospital. She visits her regularly and it is after one such visit that she meets Tansey, a new neighbour. Tansey is friendly & talkative and Mary is enthralled, especially when she says she has an urgent message for Mary's granny...

When Mary's mother hears that her daughter has made a new friend she is curious to meet this young woman who has the same distinctive name as her own grandmother. Slowly, pieces of the jigsaw fit together and they realise with shock that Tansey is in fact...a (very friendly) ghost!

Brought together in the most surreal of situations, Mary and her mother, along with Tansey, head to the hospital to collect Emer. From there, four generations of women head off on one last glorious, spectacular road trip together. Conversation flows as they take a trip down memory lane, preparing themselves for final goodbyes but warm in the knowledge that life is most definitely amazing, quite often truly mysterious and - if you're lucky - full of love.

Synopsis: Marlow, an introspective sailor, travels to Brussels to receive a letter of introduction from an influential aunt and meets the fiancée of the enigmatic Kurtz. Taking a job as a riverboat captain for a company trading in ivory in the Congo, Marlow arrives at the Outer Station experiencing its brutality at first hand. After a gruelling inland trek he arrives at the Central Station and finds that his steamship has been sunk. Following repairs he sets out on the voyage with the manager upriver to rescue Kurtz, who is rumoured to be ill. Their ship is attacked by a band of natives, killing Marlow's friend the African engineer. Arriving at Kurtz's Inner Station a crazed Harlequin figure describes how Kurtz has established himself as a god. They stretch Kurtz on board and, after Marlow finds him crawling toward the native's camp, he convinces him to return to the ship and they set off downriver. Kurtz entrusts Marlow with personal documents before he dies. On his return to Europe Marlow visits Kurtz's fiancée who lavishes praise on him. Marlow withholds the truth from her and, racked with fever, walks the streets of Brussels forever changed by his journey to Africa.

Synopsis: Thriller writer Ben, struggling for inspiration, retreats to an isolated rural cabin to start on his latest novel and to escape the growing tension with his boyfriend Jamie. Working late into the night, he wakes to find a wounded man in the cabin, claiming to be a hunter whose car had broken down nearby. Intrigued and attracted to the mysterious and handsome intruder Ben decides to secretly use him as inspiration as the antagonist for his new book: a savage murder believed to have taken place in the very cabin he has rented. As the man begins to help him enact increasingly dangerous and detailed scenarios for the story's captive protagonist, Ben becomes aroused by the prospects, but finds himself rebuffed by a homophobic slur. Searching the man's car, he uncovers stolen property belonging to several other young men hinting he may be a serial killer, a perfect twist for Ben's novel. Discovering his own car sabotaged, and unable to escape, Ben enters a lethal game of cat and mouse. But it's only when the fate of Ben's boyfriend Jamie is revealed that Ben's dark, erotic, fantasy becomes a stark, inescapable, reality.

As endless paperwork piles up on his desk, he learns he has a fatal illness. Thus begins his quest to find some meaning to his life before it slips away. He first attempts, with limited success, to throw himself into debauchery during a wild night in Brighton in the company of a bohemian writer he befriends there. Arriving back in London, he ignores family and work responsibilities for days on end. But soon he becomes intrigued by Margaret, a young co-worker in his office, who appears to exemplify exactly what life and living is. As their friendship grows, she shows him how to harness his years of experience and dedication into a final supreme effort to push through, against all odds, a modest, much-delayed project for children in a poor district of London. This last generous act rewards Williams with a revelatory understanding of the joys and meaning of living.

Producing, writing, and directing, Powell and Pressburger created some of the great classics of the British golden age including The Red Shoes, Black Narcissus, A Matter of Life and Death and The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp. In the words of Scorsese their films were "grand, poetic, wise, adventurous, headstrong, enraptured by beauty, deeply romantic, and completely uncompromising". This film will be an unparalleled exploration of their genius.

Scorsese will take the audience on a very personal journey as we hear how, from a young age he was captivated by their films, how they helped shape his own filmmaking and how a later friendship with Michael Powell left an indelible mark on his own life.

Brought to life with a treasure trove of rare archival material from the personal collections of Powell, Pressburger and Scorsese, the story will be told using diaries, audio recordings, home movies, personal snapshots and of course the films themselves.

Midas Man

Cast: Jacob Fortune-Lloyd, Jay Leno, Emily Watson, Eddie Marsan, Matt Lucas, Omari Douglas, Lukas Gage, Charley Palmer Rothwell

Genre: Biography

Director: Sara Sugarman

Status: Production

Synopsis: It's easy to be overshadowed when the other characters in your story are named John, Paul, George and Ringo, but for the first time on film, MIDAS MAN invites 'the Fifth Beatle', Brian Epstein, to centre stage.

When Brian Epstein set foot in the Cavern Club in November 1961 to watch The Beatles perform he saw something no one else could – a glimmer of gold. Sharply dressed and well-spoken, Brian was hardly the most obvious radical – but being Jewish, closeted, and having grown up as an outsider who had failed at pretty much everything, he was a 26-year old with something to prove, and who wanted to tear up the rulebook.

MIDAS MAN is the emotional, heartfelt and often funny story of how Epstein polished four scruffy lads who were going nowhere and in a matter of months turned them into a global phenomenon; of his unwavering belief in his artists and his tenacity in the face of getting turned down by every big record label; and of the style, guile and charm that allowed him to 'break' America and fundamentally change popular culture forever.

Starring The Queen's Gambit breakout JACOB FORTUNE-LLOYD, and featuring music from Brian's artists including The Beatles, Gerry and The Pacemakers and Cilla Black, MIDAS MAN explores the forces that drove one of the greatest outsiders of all time to walk a line between unprecedented success and unheralded chaos, all at a price to his personal well-being.

Innovator. Influencer. Impresario. The man with the golden touch.

Cast: Max Mosley, Bernie Ecclestone, Jean Todt, Hugh Grant

Genre: Documentary

Director: Michael Shevloff

Status: Completed

Synopsis: A no-holds-barred study of one of the most successful yet controversial figures in motorsport, Max Mosley. Born under the dark shadow of his infamous fascist father Oswald Mosley, Max has fought his entire life to make his own mark. First in the 1970s as the owner of March, the upstart underdog Formula One race-winning team, then with friend and fellow team owner Bernie Ecclestone Mosley wrestled control of Formula One from the FIA leading to F1's most lucrative and popular heyday. Mosley himself went on to preside over the FIA striving to improve driver safety.

Denied his political ambition due to the stigma of his father's legacy, Mosley strove to leave a worthwhile legacy of his own taking on the might of car giants worldwide, shaming them into improving the safety of their motor vehicles worldwide. Despite this, Mosley continued to be hounded by the press, digging into his private life, leading to one of the biggest battles of all against the press barons set out to bury his reputation.

My Name Is Alfred Hitchcock

Genre: Documentary
Director: Mark Cousins
Status: Completed

Synopsis: 2022 marks the hundred-year anniversary of Alfred Hitchcock's first feature. A century on, Hitchcock remains one of the most influential filmmakers in the history of cinema. But how does his vast body of work and legacy hold up in today's society? Mark Cousins, the award-winning filmmaker behind The Story of Film: An Odyssey, The Eyes of Orson Welles and The Story of Film: A New Generation, tackles this question and looks at the auteur with a new and radical approach: through the use of his own voice. As Hitchcock re-watches his films, we are taken on an odyssey through his vast career - his vivid silent films, the legendary films of the 1950s and 60s and his later works - in playful and revealing ways.

Severance

Cast: Stanley Tucci, Olga Kurylenko
Genre: Thriller
Director: Andrew Morahan
Status: Pre-Production

Synopsis: Frank McAllister lives for the CHASE, the BUZZ, the ADRENALINE RUSH of 'the job'. You could say he deals in money. Lots of it. But he is no bank clerk or accountant, he is a career criminal and he is about to embark on the job of his life.

Doyle used to be the same and Frank was his mentor, but recently he has been keeping a low profile. His security business affords him a comfortable living and keeps the 'po po' away. But however much he thinks he has convinced himself otherwise, the itch is still there and when Frank calls his Right Hand Man about his final, massive heist, well, he just can't resist.

So Doyle finds himself in a back room bar in Berlin, which Frank and the rest of the crew Graham, Nico, Matthias and new boy Gareth - a familiar band of brothers. Their plan? To steal a lot of money from Klaus Schroeder, an ex Stasi banker who 'looks after' inappropriately gained funds for villains and politicians.

This isn't just a job for the boys. Whilst the crew set up, Katja, Madelaine and Lea, three tough, strong, independent women, fuel the escalating action.

Frank's planning for the heist has been carried out with military precision. So why do they execute a brilliant underwater break in and then walk away, leaving the cash in the open vault? And why does Frank - usually so on the ball - not spot the double cross? This should be the perfect crime. Turns out though, that nothing in life is ever as perfect as it seems.

Synopsis: Anton Corbijn's feature documentary debut, Squaring the Circle (The Story of Hipgnosis), which premiered at the 2022 Telluride Film Festival, is an entertaining tribute to the days of analog creativity and artistic risk.

Whether you're a fan of Pink Floyd or not, chances are you know exactly what the album covers of The Dark Side of the Moon and Wish You Were Here look like. But you might not be familiar with the creative duo behind those iconic images: Storm Thorgerson and Aubrey "Po" Powell, aka the innovative design studio Hipgnosis.

Hipgnosis went from making covers for their mates (the likes of David Gilmour and Syd Barrett) to establishing themselves as the driving force behind visual identities of some of the most popular artists of the 1970s (think Led Zeppelin and Paul McCartney). Their methods were unconventional, their budgets often unreasonable, but they were fearless visionaries who artfully manipulated photographic images long before computer graphics became ubiquitous.

Corbijn's film is a charming, witty, beautifully crafted tale of challenging friendships, passion, and vision, full of fascinating anecdotes and big music personalities.

Synopsis: ABI, a robotics scientist, moves to the countryside with her husband, PAUL, to make a fresh start following his affair. She's been hired by Integrate to put the finishing touches to a revolutionary new product, 'T.I.M'; a humanoid A.I. that syncs with its owner's devices to anticipate their every need.

However, Abi's dreams of a new life are derailed when her T.I.M. becomes obsessed with her, doing whatever is necessary to take Paul's place. A stalker in her own home, T.I.M. uses its access to their data and company smart home to manipulate her and fake evidence of a fresh affair.

What hope does trust have against an intelligence that can access your bank account, perfectly imitate your voice, and deep-fake incriminating footage? How can you escape something that can remotely lock your doors or take control of your driverless car as it speeds down the motorway?

As T.I.M.'s obsession deepens, it's not just their relationship that is in danger. It's their lives.
